About ICICTE

The International Conference on Information Communication Technologies in Education (ICICTE) is a scientific event held annually on a Greek island since the year 2000.

Aims & Themes

ICICTE seeks to address the many challenges and new directions presented by technological innovations in educational settings. ICICTE brings together an international community of scholars and practitioners in a forum setting. Opportunities for discussion on current thinking and practices in applications of technology to education are enhanced by the limited number of participants.

With the keynote speaker, plenary sessions, workshops, and forums examining the integration of technology into all facets of education, the conference provides participants with an environment for intensive interdisciplinary interaction and collegial debate. Those attending ICICTE leave with an excellent overview of current thinking and practices in applications of technology to education.

This year's conference, to be held on Rhodes, Greece, aims to encourage discussion regarding alternative processes, procedures, techniques and tools for creating learning environments appropriate for the twenty-first century. These include:

- Pedagogy in the evolving tech environment
- Political economy and educational technology: Intersections
- The architecture of learning; accessibility; the evolution of the classroom
- Pedagogy in the evolving tech environment
- Informal and formal adult education
- Multi-grade education
- Instructional design and delivery; evaluation and assessment
- Strategies and tools for teaching and learning, simulations and gaming
- Effects on training institutions and industry
- Impacts on educational institutions: effects on faculty, staff, administration, and students; curriculum and program development
- Intellectual property

- Ethical considerations in the use of information technology in teaching and learning
  - The internationalization of institutions and of education
  - Open/Distance learning
  - Building communities of teachers/educators; cooperative learning
  - Teacher training
  - The use of technology in education to promote democratic ideals, freedom, equality.
  - The applied psychology of ICT-mediated learning.
  - Intellectual property and online education
  - Ethics, Human rights and access to open educational resources
  - ICT, elite performance and professional training
  - The application of psychology to learning mediated by technology

ORGANIZATIONAL SCHEME

Conference Committees

There is a core group of more than a hundred scientists from all over the world that works tirelessly and with great enthusiasm on a volunteer basis to guarantee year by year the success of the academic and the social program of the conference.

The Conference Organisers for the year 2017, Southampton Solent University (UK), are responsible for all organisational details as well as financial management. The Justice Institute of British Columbia (Canada) are co-organizers of the conference.

The Conference Scientific Committee is responsible for the selection of the papers that will be presented at the conference plenary sessions, the posters and the workshops following a double-blind peer review process. Selected papers are published in the journals that cooperate with ICICTE.

The Publications and Promotions Committee is responsible for the promotion of the event and for the publications of the conference: the volume of the conference proceedings which is available online and the journals that cooperate with ICICTE.

Other Conference Features

The ICICTE Graduate Student Paper Award, first given in 2004 as the University of the Fraser Valley Graduate Student Paper Prize, recognizes the work of upcoming scholars and practitioners.

The conference's social programs have always brought Greek hospitality to the fore of our meetings and discussions. Every year the social program includes the opening night drinks, the closing 'Greek Night' dinner, two lunches, the "Philosophers' Cafe" in which keynote speakers hold an informal Q&A discussion with delegates, and other formal or informal social events.

The gorgeous, historical environment, the limited number of participants, and the intimate setting allow attendees to develop associations that extend into post-conference activities.

Conference Demographics

The conference draws educational specialists from a range of sectors – including Higher education, School (K-12) education and professional training. These include senior management, developers, educational technology specialists, teachers, lecturers and training professionals. The conference is attended by a truly international group of delegates, with every continent represented and a wide spread of countries.
